Don't forget that street car project.
REAL estate is now booming in Benton county and Corvallis.

WITH the west side extension completed, won't Corvallis put on airs?

DECEASED meat continues to be found in the markets of San Francisco and Los Angeles.

DOM PEDRO has been deposed as emperor of Brazil. He is the "low-jack" in the game now.

THINGS in the building line will just fairly rattle around Corvallis in '90. Keep your optics on this city.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has resigned. We mean the president of the Olympic club of San Francisco.

THE S. F. Chronicle is agitating the reduction of street car fare to three cents. Isn't a nickle-5 cheap enough?

THE west side of the Willamette valley is now beginning to catch up with the east and, in time, will be in the lead.

A MAN named Gray eight years ago was offered five lots in Spokane Falls for $10 apiece. Last summer one of the five was sold for $45,000.

AN advertisement elsewhere in the GAZETTE calls for a school teacher. Is it possible that schoolmams are getting so scarce that they have to be advertised for?

THE democratic leaders have announced that their future campaigns are to be fought on the tariff issue. This will meet with the approval of the republican party.

WYOMING, Idaho, New Mexico, and Arizona, will be knocking for admission into the union as states when congress meets next month. Let them come in, if they prove worthy enough.

IN the whole history of great nations no change of government so complete was ever made in so short a space of time as the metamorphosis of the empire of Brazil into a republic.

A SCHOOLBOY in New Jersey recently read an essay on man, in which occurred this pleasant bit of description:

Man is a wonderful animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth. His ears are mostly for catching cold in and having the carache. The nose is to get sniffles with. A man's body is split half way up, and he walks on the split ends.

WHEN those long overland trains begin to pull through Corvallis it will be amusing to see how greatly surprised the tourists will be at the fine and imposing appearance of our public buildings! They cannot help but see them, as the track is in the center of the city—not away off to one side.

AN international postage stamp, good in England, France, Germany and the United States, is seriously proposed. Its chief use would be to enable persons to remit small amounts, such as are usually sent in stamps, from one country to another. It might pave the way for international coinage.

OREGON crankologists are always first in the field when a new party or club is talked of. The "Nationalists" are the next to try and demand attention. If they form many more new organizations where, oh where, will the prohibition party be. Maybe when they all get formed it will be the "National Reform Prohibition Crank party."

THE new state of Washington has her great unknown land like the interior of Africa. The country shut in by the Olympic mountains, which includes an area of about 2,500 square miles, has never, to the positive knowledge of old residents of the territory, been trodden by the foot of man, white or Indian. These mountains rise from the level country, within 10 or 15 miles from the straits of San Juan de Fuca in the north, the Pacific ocean in the west, Hood's canal in the east and the basin of the Quinalt lake in the south, and, rising to a height of 8,000 to 8,000 feet, shut in a vast unexplored area.

"THE PROHIBITION SHIP."

Miss Frances Willard is a noble woman, endowed with a lofty spirit of philanthropy; but, for all that, her vision is dimmed by the hazy atmosphere of impracticability that hangs over the prohibition camp. She is the trusted leader of an organization of truly good women, whose actions are controlled more by emotional impulses than by the cold light of reason. So when she arises in convention and deals out glittering generalities about the happy time when the "good ship Prohibition" shall come sailing into harbor, with colors flying and a cargo of prosperity and good will on board, she is cheered to the echo, and her auditors hug to their bosom the delusion that they are saving the world—and are happy. This is all very fine, and does little or no harm; but for all that it will never solve the liquor problem, says the Spokane Review. Prohibition has had a fair trial and has been found wanting. A few years ago the school of emotional orators declaimed so loudly and earnestly that a great many people who recognized the evils flowing from the saloon, and observed, as all do, that high license fell short of the ideal, were influenced to the extent of giving prohibition a trial. That they have lived to rue the day, the results of the recent elections in prohibition states give ample proof. In some of these the sentiment against the experiment has grown so strong that the people, grown weary of an era of free whisky and unrestrained saloons, have risen with a strong impulse and cast the incubus away from them.

If the good ship Prohibition carries so generous a cargo of contentment and sobriety, how comes it that Iowa, harboring, as she has for several years, this figurative craft, has been unable to share a few of these blessings? If prohibition closes the saloons, banishes prisons and makes tenantless the farms, houses and insane asylums, why do we find these deplorable institutions within the limits of Iowa, Kansas, Vermont and other prohibition states? And where shall we seek an explanation of the political revolution that lately swept across the state of Iowa, and converted a hitherto republican stronghold into a democratic state, if the voters of that state are so contented and happy? If there are no prisons, nor almshouses, nor asylums within the broad borders of prohibition Iowa, why are the people complaining of burdensome taxes, and emigrating by thousands into surrounding states where the high license system is in operation?

The Review (not GAZETTE) is no friend or admirer of the saloon. It does not seek to gild vice or evil, but it recognizes in the saloon the our growth, the effect, of a cause, and that cause, it believes, is a curse that has always shadowed the progress of humanity, and always will so long as the animal part of man delights in the effects of alcoholic stimulation.

At the recent meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society in New Haven, Conn., Rev. H. N. Kinney thus described the prayer meeting of the future: "It will in general be upside down and inside out, compared with the prayer-meeting of to-day. The prayer-meeting of the future will have a cheerful open fire. The leader will sit where he pleases, only it will be near somebody. The company present will face one another in cozy groups around the evening lamps, only no one will be allowed his favorite corner."

A nationalist remarks that if the government owned all the land, a house that now costs $6,000 could be built for $2,000, and would rent for $30 a year. Who would get the rent?

It is said that the statue to A. J. Stevens, late master mechanic of the Central Pacific road, erected at Sacramento, is the first statue of a workman erected in this country.

It would take a train 3,125 miles long to carry the Kansas corn crop.

MOTHERS!

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhoea and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents, 31c-2y.

THE CHAMBER OF TORTURE

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific are yet very desirable at times. Yet they can produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should, therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, malaria and nervousness are relieved by it.

SUBURBAN PROPERTY.

CORVALLIS IMPROVEMENT COMPANY'S —Sale of— LOTS and BLOCKS

In JOB'S ADDITION to the City of Corvallis.

Fifteen Minutes Walk from Business Center, Ten Minutes walk from New Public School and Court House. The southwest portion of the Addition is within two blocks of the State Agricultural College. This most delightfully located

TRACT of LAND

Immediately adjoining Corvallis on the northwest was purchased by a syndicate who have platted and laid it out in town lots and blocks, and is now placed upon the market. The tract embraces seventy-five acres of rich land, there being just sufficient slope to insure good drainage. The entire tract has been highly cultivated for years. It is the FINEST

RESIDENCE PROPERTY

Now on the Market, and the fact that the growth of this city both in public buildings and private residences is in the direction or this property insures a rapid increase in values.

Corvallis spent in public improvement alone the present year $165,000, not to mention private buildings. The erection of three substantial brick edifices, a large steam flouring mill, a block of elegant cottages (by outside capital) certain to be built the coming season, with a cannery establishment and other enterprises receiving favorable consideration, speak well for the development of the city. The long deferred extension of the Southern Pacific Company's road to a junction with the main line, seems assured the coming season, and that the West Side will then become the main line seems equally certain. Then indeed will this side of the valley experience such a growth and corresponding increase in values of property as she has never yet known. This is the history of the East Side, and is sure to be ours. That Corvallis will maintain her position as the leading city on the West Side no one can doubt. The State Agricultural College would in itself be an important factor in the growth of any community, requiring for its maintenance large and increasing sums each year, and drawing to our city hundreds of families to avail themselves of our superior educational facilities. The low prices of all classes of Real Estate as compared with some of the much-talked-of "Boom Towns" cannot fail to attract capital, and a consequent enhancement of all values will result. It is the intention of the company (and it possesses both the ability and will) to make Job's addition worthy the attention of both the home-seeker and the investor. The unsurpassed location, within a few minutes' walk of the business centre, schools, public buildings, etc., excellent drainage, magnificent views, etc., combine to make it specially desirable as residence property while the investor can not fail to net a handsome profit. The property is laid off in blocks 200x300 ft.; lots 50x100 ft. The central block in the addition is reserved and will be laid out as a public park and planted in ornamental trees and shrubbery. The company have also reserved land for an electric-light station, proposing so soon as a sufficient number of lots are sold and residences erected to operate a small plant (arc system) for street lighting. The Corvallis Water Company have agreed to extend their mains through this addition when needed. Other improvements tending to increase the value of the property are contemplated.

ELEGANT RESIDENCE AND FIVE ACRES OF LAND

FREE

Included in this addition and facing immediately on the county road is a handsome two-story residence, of ten rooms, with fruit-house, wood-house, barn, etc., together with five acres of land; that immediately surrounding the house is beautifully laid out in shrubbery, ornamental trees and garden, the balance being a fine orchard of cherries, pears, apples, etc. Also an abundance of blackberries, raspberries and other small fruits. The company propose making this a free gift to purchasers of lots in Job's addition, every lot carrying with it one chance in the drawing, to take place when all the lots are sold, for this elegant property, which will be conducted in such manner as the owners of the lots may elect and a warranty deed for the property given the person drawing it.

DON'T LOSE THIS OPPORTUNITY

Of securing choice residence property at first prices. Lots are already selling rapidly and are sure to advance before spring.

TITLE PERFECT; Easy PAYMENTS.

Prices of lots and blocks, maps, plats, illustrated descriptive pamphlet of Corvallis, with photographic views of the above property, to be had of
